SERMON TITLE: BUILDERS ARE HONoured BY GOD

Epistle Reading: Isaiah 58

Sermon Text: Isaiah 58:6–14

Message

When we talk about “builders,” many Christians think only of spiritual activities—prayer, fasting, serving, or building the house of God. But God does not use half-built people. He develops the whole person before He deploys them. To be effective builders in the Kingdom, we must build ourselves spiritually and personally—our minds, skills, influence, and capacity. A believer who is spiritually strong but mentally weak or socially unaware becomes limited. God wants men and women who are complete, balanced, and equipped.

Using the PESTLE framework, we see how Christians must build their entire lives so God can use them more effectively:

1. Political – Matthew 5:14

Believers must understand leadership and the systems around them. Like Joseph, Daniel, Esther, and Nehemiah, influence grows when we understand our world and stand for righteousness.

2. Economic – Proverbs 22:29

God honours diligence and competence. Building your skills, finances, and work ethic makes you a valuable vessel for Kingdom advancement.

3. Social – Luke 2:52

Jesus grew in favour with God and man. Character, communication, and healthy relationships make your spiritual life effective and your witness stronger.

4. Technological – Ecclesiastes 10:10

Wisdom includes using the tools of your generation. Christians must adapt to technology so they can remain relevant and multiply their impact.

5. Legal – 1 Peter 3:16

Understanding principles, rules, and responsibilities helps believers live with integrity and order, strengthening their testimony.

6. Environmental – Matthew 7:24

A wise believer builds the right atmosphere, discipline, structure, and adaptability. When your environment is aligned, your destiny becomes stable.

This is how we become complete builders, men and women God can trust with foundations that last for generations.

LESSON ONE: Those that raise the foundation of many generations Isaiah 58:12

This verse speaks about believers who take responsibility for rebuilding what is broken. They strengthen weak places, restore abandoned places, and build what outlives them. God honours such people because they carry His heart.

The Bible gives us strong examples of honoured builders. One clear example is David. Although he did not construct the temple himself, he prepared everything, materials, resources, labour, and even the design (1 Chronicles 22:5; 29:1–3). His desire to build for God moved Heaven. And because of his heart, God established his throne, gave him victory, and preserved his lineage until Christ.

Many others also built for God:

- Solomon built the temple (1 Kings 6).
- Nehemiah rebuilt the Jerusalem walls (Nehemiah 2–6).
- Zerubbabel rebuilt after the exile (Ezra 3–6).
- Noah built the ark (Genesis 6–8).
- Moses built the tabernacle (Exodus 25–40).
- The Apostles built the early church (Acts 2–4).

All these people were honoured because they built what mattered to God. The principle is simple: When you build for God, God builds for you.

LESSON TWO: The Lifestyle of Those Who Enjoy the Blessings of the Land

Isaiah 58:13–14

After describing the builders and restorers, God turns to the lifestyle that positions a person to enjoy divine blessing. These verses focus strongly on the Sabbath, not simply as a rule, but as a symbol of honour, obedience, and spiritual alignment.

First, He says they respect the Sabbath. They treat God's day as sacred, giving Him room to refresh and speak to them.

Second, they do not pursue their own interests on His day. This shows alignment: "Lord, You come first."

Third, they value and honour the holy day, knowing that honour opens doors of blessing, peace, clarity, and strength.

Finally, they avoid turning the Sabbath into a day of unnecessary travelling, business, or idle talk. It becomes a day of rest, worship, and spiritual focus.

And God promises that such people will delight in Him, walk in honour, and enjoy the heritage of Jacob, joy, honour, and inheritance.

KEY POINTS

1. Builders Are Rewarded With Joy Neh 8:10
When you build for God, He fills your life with a joy that work and money cannot produce.
2. Builders Receive Honour. 1 Sam 2:30
Those who honour God's work never remain in the shadows — God Himself lifts their name.
3. Builders Receive Inheritance. Heb 6:10
Every kingdom builder receives a heritage that outlives them — God never forgets their labour.

BENEFITS TO BUILDERS (Isaiah 58)

1. Light that breaks forth. Isa 58:8
Those who build for God walk in clarity — confusion disappears where divine light shines.
2. Healing that springs up speedily. Isa 58:8
God heals the lives of those who help heal His work.
3. Righteousness going before them. Isa 58:8
God's presence becomes your reputation; righteousness becomes your covering.
4. Glory guarding behind them. Isa 58:8
When you build for God, His glory becomes your protection from every attack.
5. Answered prayers Isa 58:9
Builders do not pray into silence — Heaven responds when they call.
6. Guidance. Isa 58:11
God directs the steps of those who dedicate their hands to His work.
7. Provision. Isa 58:11
Even in drought, God satisfies the soul of those who satisfy His kingdom.
8. Strength. Isa 58:11
Builders never burn out — God Himself renews their strength.
9. Fruitfulness. Isa 58:11
Your life becomes like a watered garden — fresh, flourishing, and productive.
10. Generational impact. Isa 58:12
What you build for God today becomes a foundation for generations tomorrow.

CONCLUSION

Throughout Scripture, God honours builders. David, Solomon, Nehemiah, Moses, Noah—all were remembered because they built something for God. The same principle stands today. If we give ourselves to building God's house, God will build our lives. If we honour His ways, He will lift us. If we raise foundations for others, He will give us joy, honour, and inheritance.

Take Home Lessons

1. God honours anyone who commits to building what matters to Him; He lifts and remembers such people : Isa 58:12
2. Building for God can be physical or spiritual—what matters is the heart behind it : 1 Chr 22:5
3. God rewards the desire to build even before the work is completed, just as He honoured David's intention : 1 Chr 29:3
4. Honouring God's holy day positions you to receive joy, strength, and divine direction : Isa 58:13
5. Builders enjoy joy, honour, and a lasting inheritance from God : Isa 58:14

Prayer

1. Isa 58:12 Lord, make me a builder in Your kingdom; help me raise foundations that will bless many generations.
2. Isa 58:12 Father, give me the wisdom and strength to repair every broken place You entrust to me.
3. 1 Chr 22:5 Lord, like David, give me the heart to prepare, support, and build for Your glory.
4. 1 Chr 29:3 Father, honour the desires of my heart that align with building Your house and Your work.
5. Neh 2:18 Lord, strengthen my hands to build what You have called me to build without fear or distraction.
6. Exo 25:40 Father, help me follow Your pattern and Your instructions as I build in my generation.
7. Isa 58:13 Lord, teach me to honour Your holy day and give You priority in my life.
8. Isa 58:14 Father, let me delight in You and cause me to ride upon the high places of the earth.
9. Isa 58:14 Lord, release into my life the heritage and blessings promised to Jacob.
10. Act 2:42 Father, make me a builder of people, a strengthener of believers, and a pillar in Your church.
